Need assistance with gaining practical work experience?

We give support and advice to our N4 – N6 students who are busy with their National Qualifications and who want to apply for their National Diplomas at the end of their studies. While we focus on our N6 students, we also assist our N4 and N5 students by explaining the criteria so that if they do have an opportunity to gain practical work experience at an employer, they already have the necessary information regarding the requirements.

We also provide our N4 – N6 students with the necessary documentation to be able to apply for the 18 month work integrated learning programme at a suitable employer. This documentation includes: Guidelines to the student on how to apply for the National Diploma; Letter to the employer; Checklist per subject for the student and employer.

For students who are looking for work integrated learning opportunities, we also recommend having a look at the DHET's placement service: <https://webapps.dhet.gov.za/iWIL>.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BOOKKEEPING AND ACCOUNTING?

Bookkeeping and accounting are similar in the sense that they both involve working with financial data, and they both play a role in the accounting cycle. Bookkeeping, however, is only involved in the initial recordkeeping stage of the accounting cycle. For a better understanding of the differences between bookkeeping and accounting, have a look at the following definitions:

Bookkeeping

Bookkeeping involves the accurate recording of the financial transactions that take place in an organisation on a daily basis. General bookkeeping tasks may include:

- making journal entries
- posting journal entries to ledger accounts
- filing source documents
- paying accounts
- preparing invoices
- sending statements to customers/clients
- processing payroll data

Accounting

Accounting, on the other hand, involves recording, classifying, summarising, reporting, analysing, and interpreting the financial data so that it can be used for decision-making by senior management. General accounting activities may include using the data recorded during the bookkeeping process to:

- draw up financial statements
- perform calculations
- compile financial reports

Unlike bookkeeping, accounting is divided into specialised branches, including financial accounting, management accounting, tax accounting, and auditing.

While in theory there is a clear distinction between bookkeeping and accounting, there is an overlap of the roles of bookkeepers and accountants in practice. In a small organisation, for example, you might find that the bookkeeper is responsible for preparing the financial statements, even though this is technically part of accounting rather than bookkeeping.

WHY SHOULD YOU STUDY BOOKKEEPING AND/OR ACCOUNTING?

A bookkeeping or accounting course can prepare you for a rewarding career in the financial field. This type of course will also give you a sound understanding of important financial concepts. Whether you plan to pursue a career as a bookkeeper or accountant, or whether you want to work in a managerial role in the business world, having a basic understanding of financial recordkeeping and reporting is essential. Aside from equipping you with the skills you need to pursue a specific career, studying a bookkeeping or accounting course can help you to:

- Improve your qualifications so that you can advance in your career
- Stand out from other job candidates
- Learn the basic financial skills you will need when managing a small business

WHAT CAREER OPPORTUNITIES ARE AVAILABLE?

Bookkeeping and accounting play an integral role in the business world. As a result, bookkeeping and accounting skills will always be in demand. Some of the careers that may be open to those who have studied bookkeeping or accounting are listed in the blue section at the bottom of the page.

Accountants also have the option of furthering their studies and working towards positions such as:

- Company Secretary
- Accounting Officer
- Chief Financial Officer
- Auditor

Bookkeeper
Accounting Clerk
Office Administrator

Payroll Administrator
Technical Financial Accountant
Management Accountant

Tax Accountant
Financial Manager
